United Sovereign Americans Files Lawsuit Against Georgia Election Officials

SEPTEMBER 9, 2024

Amidst trepidations that non-citizens will impact the electoral outcome of the 2024 races nationwide, United Sovereign Americans has filed suit against Georgia's Secretary of State Brad Raffensperger, alleging that he failed to verify the identity and eligibility of at least 543,859 facially invalid voter registrants, regardless of citizenship status, and authorized at least 239,178 potentially illegal votes from these questionable registrants in the 2022 general election to vote. Also named as a defendant is Attorney General Chris Carr, who Plaintiffs allege has failed to enforce state laws that would have prevented this civil rights injury to all qualified Georgia voters, and US Attorney General Merrick Garland, who has failed to enforce federal law. Petitioners assert these officials did not provide a legally reliable or valid election in the 2022 general election, according to the standards set by the United States Congress.

In the Help America Vote Act, Congress set a maximum error rate for a reliable federal election of 1 in 10,000,000 ballot positions (though Petitioners here have used the more Respondent-friendly number of 1 in 500,000 to make the point even more clear). This number translates into 1 out of 125,000 ballots in error permitted by law. A ballot position is a circle on a ballot. After careful analysis of Georgia official state records regarding the 2022 midterm election, that accuracy requirement appears to have been ignored. In a reliable election, there would have been no more than 32 errors statewide yet there were 239,146 apparent errors. Plaintiffs also allege that according to Georgia state official's own records, there were 34,304 fewer votes than their records show voters having voted.

Representing the plaintiffs is Bruce L. Castor, Jr. of van der Veen, Hartshorn, Levin & Lindheim. They argue that, "While Petitioners cannot state with certainty that the 2022 Georgia General Election produced "winning" candidates who should not have won, Petitioners believe and therefore aver that Georgia officials cannot state with certainty that all "winning" candidates received more votes than the "losing" candidates because the election itself was compromised by the State's failure to conform to the requirements of federal law designed to ensure reliable election results."

Petitioners have made numerous attempts to inform state officials of this problem, yet Defendants and their respective offices remain unwilling to examine evidence and bring the Georgia voting system into compliance. The Mandamus action seeks a court order that the 2024 election be conducted according to all applicable constitutional, federal, and state laws protecting the fundamental right of every American to choose representatives in a fairly and honestly conducted election.

States have a dual responsibility under the United States Constitution to protect against denial of the vote, and dilution of valid votes with invalid ballots procured by corruption. In the presence of uncertainty, the law presumes fraud and the State of Georgia must produce records proving accuracy. Defendants have been unwilling to do so. The concern Plaintiffs raise is that the civil rights harm sustained by every qualified Georgia voter in 2022, absent intervention by the court, will occur again in 2024 and subsequent federal elections. When a state fails to protect voting rights, federal apportionment can be reduced. While the State of Georgia prefers everyone to believe these are "innocent" mistakes, the law requires investigation before certifying results.

United Sovereign Americans is also suing state officials in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Florida, North Carolina, Michigan, Ohio, Texas and Colorado and plans to continue filing lawsuits until every state provides their citizens with Constitutionally valid elections.
